“Condizionale presente” (2017)

I would study all the chemical formulas possible
To keep you always as you are
On the perfect horizon line
In my clear eyes
And all of the handling to give you
In all the seasons
These flowers that seem like fragrant explosives to you
In their unfolding towards the sun
I would face any danger
And clean any painful wound
I would stretch out my arms
For a better hug
You make me feel love
Because you reveal everything about me
You, you change the rhythm of the hours
Because there's no other music
You explain to me what matters
What really matters
I would subvert
All the rules of the Universe
To preserve you, to make you stronger
Everyone the same and each something different
I would extinguish all diseases
Famine, wars
And every end, to never lose you
And you, the star that doesn't disappear
Turn inwards
That to die becomes bright night and day
Bigger, more beautiful
Bright and enveloping
And even burning
You make me drunk with love because
You displace everything about me
You make my hours fly by
Because there's no other voice
Say what counts
What really counts
I would replenish forests
To give you shade of your breath
Bigger than the trees on my journey
And I would show you
That crazy people are good
Dreamers

They reach their passions
In the balance
Standing upright
On simple emotions
And I would, and I would like
And I could, you know
The things I would do
That I have in mind
You
That I would really like
You
What I would do
Present conditional...
